

The Conscious Design Magazine is an electronic publication distributed monthly to both public and professional subscribers, reaching people that are interested in creating a healthy life through education, communication, services and products.

More than ever, people are understanding the deep connection we have to our homes and offices. Now is the time to reach the public with your valuable green product or healthy consultation service.

The e-magazine is free and open to the general public. It is targeted for field professionals as well as the general public, as healthy space affects everyone, everyday. It is composed of articles and information, both submitted and researched on topics ancient and cutting edge on feng shui, green design, sacred geometry, bau biologie, space clearing, and any pertinent information creating healthy space and promoting the fusion philosophy of "Conscious Design".
